Masquerade Ball a Success

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the pastelote masquerade ball, given in the opera house on Tuesday night, have every reason to be satisfied with the result of their efforts. Not in the history of The Pass has any social event been so well patronized or so much enjoyed, not only by the masqueraders, but also by the hundreds of spectators, as was this event. The spacious floor of the opera house could not at all accommodate all the spectators at one time, and even to the grand march only half the spectators present could participate. Excellent music was furnished by Professor Strode's Coleman orchestra. The costumes in Blairmore of a complete supply of costume from a Calgary house lent much toward the large attendance, but the fact, that costumes could be rented did not discourage the many artists in manufacturing garments which would win first place, and the two prizes awarded went to individuals whose costumes were manufactured by the home artist. The prize for the best dressed lady was deservedly won by Mrs. W. H. Hilton, of Frank, whose characterization of an Indian Squaw was perfect in the extreme. The gentleman's prize was won by George Dominick of Blairmore. Tea was served at midnight by the ladies of the Red Cross Society, and after the wands of over four hundred guests had been supplied, dinner was served.

The net proceeds of the evening amounted to $182.30, which is being divided equally between the Red Cross and Patriotic Funds. Thanks are due to the promoters of the ball and to the ladies of the Red Cross for the amount of hard work which they did in order to make the affair a complete success, and to the public for their support given.

We have no space to make any particular reference to characters or costumes, but "O, you beautiful dolls!"

Hereforth the work of supplying prisoners of war in Germany with food and clothing will be undertaken by the Red Cross, who will handle that branch of the service exclusively. No parcels containing foodstuffs or clothing will be received at the post offices throughout Canada. The Canadian Red Cross society at London send supplies, every week to each prisoner in the German detention camps, and the authorities are satisfied that at least 90 percent of the parcels thus sent arrive at their destination.

Town Council Meeting

At the regular meeting of the Blairmore town council held last night, the auditors' report for the year ended December 31st last was received and filed, and will appear in these columns next week. A number of accounts were passed for payment.

On motion, an offer of $225

was made to Messrs. Henderson,

Reid and Patterson for services as auditors for the year 1917. The above firm asked for a fee of $275 for such services, but the council pointed out that as the school board had been separated from the town there would necessarily be a big reduction in the amount of work for the auditors.

Notice was given that at the next regular meeting of the council by-law would be introduced, amending officials for the year 1917.

PART PLAYED BY GREAT BRITAIN IN THE GREAT WORLD STRUGGLE

BECOMING SUPREME ARSENAL FOR THE ALLIANCE

Some Amazing Figures Given in the Startling Story told by Sydney Brooks of the Growth of Britain's Armies and Navy
Since the Beginning of the War

Sydney Brooks, writing in the New York Times magazine under the title "England's Part in the War," says:

"How have the allies been able to maintain their position in the face of mounting pressure on the very vital of Germany? What has made it possible for the continent of Europe, equipped with every single item in its infinite variety, to sustain such a war?"

What is it that we have been in a position to conduct simultaneous campaigns in Africa, in South America, in Ceylon, in the Balkans and the Pacific? These questions are asked at this moment in France and around Salses. How did they get there? British subjects number hundreds of thousands of the ends of the earth to the control of which they have been vowed them? What power protected them?

The United States has built up with the allies a trade that throws all previous American experience of world commerce into the shade. But how many Americans, I wonder, stop to think that in this vast volume of merchandise that crosses the Atlantic in the midst of the greatest war ever known, so swiftly and securely as in the days of profound peace?

Our ships, our colonies, have been torn from her grasp. How comes it that not a single blow has been struck by the British in the Fatherland itself? How is it again, that German sea-borne commerce has been almost entirely cut off? The German merchant vessel date show her nose—her nose, I say, not her hull, has been completely stripped of the enormous asset of her crew, who have been sacrificed to the sea?

How is it, more, that the Belgian and the Serbian armies have been built up, trained and equipped; that Russia has been remunerated by France, though her Pennsylvania is in flames? That Germany is still for purposes both of war and of commerce a great manufacturing nation, and that she has not yet lost port-treasures that they need from the sea?

The answer to all these questions, and the sole answer to most of them, is that England has won the war. The seas is not a mere adjunct to the strength of the alliance. It is its soul, its life, its very existence.

Without it all that the allies have done would be useless. With it, they can exert their instruments of certain victory.

And, while the political and financial brawls of the alliance, Great Britain is also becoming its exponent. She is the one who is ready, and on an enormous scale, she has furnished the allies with indispensable supplies of food, clothing, and other material. To her who is fighting with her turn to do the same, she has given a hand rarely turn in vain. Shells, field howitzers, heavy guns, grenades, machine-guns, and all kinds of light goods in immense quantities, day after day, lay the use of our allies.

One of our allies, the chief of steel goes to France. That takes place to those who understand the character of the war, and some of the industrial services offered by Great Britain to the command of the French army, and the steel-producing districts of France are in the enemy's hands, and our ally absolutely depends on us for the command of the sea to procure the essential supplies of war.

It is the same with other countries, with copper, for instance, antimony, with tin, with iron, with coal, with high-speed steel, and other raw substances. All these are manufactured in other parts of the Empire, or in neutral lands and delivered to the ports of the British Isles, to the ports of the British navy, to a value of $30,000,000 a month. Millions of tons of coal, and the products of our shores, every week, go with our total production of machine tools, of iron and steel, and huge arrays of explosives, and these curries are daily despatched to their allies.

There is a factory in England wholly manned by Belgians and engaged in making arms for the French and small arms for the Belgian troops. There are two or three that do nothing but make guns, and two or three others solely devoted to making guns, for the French. All the men are fighting at this moment in Britain, and the British troops are fighting at this moment in Belgium, and the German troops, of which we have turned out about 3,000,000 since the war began, and British workshops played their part in the manufacture of these.

May the Italian repulse of Austria offend you? That is all.

They are now turning out in three weeks as much eighteen-pound gunpowder as they used to produce in three months, as much cordite as twice as much, and as much medium-sized shells, and in four days as many heavy shells as were produced in three months in the first year of the war. The enormous British armies overseas have been equipped with rifles and machine guns solely from domestic sources.

Every year we are manufacturing twice as many heavy guns as the entire output of Germany, and twice as many as the production having multiplied six-fold in the last year, and being still increasing.

Americans, I imagine, have little idea of the tremendous scale on which we are carrying on the prosecution of the war we must have or- dered and paid for abroad or manufactured—about 100,000,000 yards of woolen cloth, as much of flannel, as much of cotton, as much of silk, as much of wool, and another thousand millions of yards, nearly 30,000,000 yards of socks, nearly 200,000,000 gloves, 50,000,000 leather jackets and forks, a thousand million pairs of shoes, 100,000 razors, over 2,000 miles of wire, 250,000,000 pounds of cracked wheat, and at least 200,000,000 pounds of flour, 100,000,000 pounds of meat, and so on.

Besides these we have increased our imports of coal, and the returns for the most prosperous years of peace. And yet, I dare say, there is no country in the world where British labor has not pulled its proper weight.

Let us turn to all other achievements Great Britain has converted herself into a military power, army that far, outdistanced in point of numbers any army ever raised on the soil of any nation in the history of man.

Annual Convention
T. & M. R. League

The call has been issued for the annual convention of the Alberta Temperance and Moral Reform League to meet in the First Baptist church, Edmonton, Alberta, Wednesday and Thursday, February 14th and 15th.

Every local league will call a general meeting of its members to nominate a delegate to represent it at the annual convention. The delegates will be entitled to two representatives, and if the membership is over fifty, one additional delegate for each additional fifty members.

The usual transportation rates for conventions will prevail, under which delegations purchase one way tickets and take standard certificates, and the return fare depends upon the number attending.

The Mystery of a Pack of Cards

A private soldier by the name of John Owen was taken before the magistrate recently for playing cards during Divine Service. He was accused of being drunk and disorderly and of being a disturber of the quiet at the church, and when the priest found the players, he took the text. Those that had bibles took them. But this soldier had nothing but a pack of cards in his pocket but pulling out a pack of cards to spread them before him. He looked at one, then at another. The Sergeant of the company saw him and said: "John put up the cards, I see you are playing them." John replied that he was not playing cards, he was always wanted to know everything. Deeming it indelicate, to pursue the matter further, the reporter withdrew, and went to his office to interview the officer in charge of the military police.

When he arrived there he found that he was not alone. On being asked whether he had taken cognizance of the fact that the Germans had recently executed their mine field, and whether it was not a fact that this move was a deliberate attempt to interfere with the mining industry, he said that the local butchers had recently smuggled in a blind pig, for the purpose, soft was being whispered, of instituting a corner in town.

He was asked if he had any information concerning the German's recent acts, he replied that a marching corps was now planning measures of reprisal, and would be ready to strike. Fired with enthusiasm, the reporter asked whether he had taken cognizance of the fact that the Germans had recently executed their mine field, and whether it was not a fact that this move was a deliberate attempt to interfere with the mining industry.

Concerning the most recent war loan, the soldier stated that the entire police force was being liberally employed, and with full supervision of its sermons, and with the knowledge that it might be used against him in case he was captured.

The reporter, however, was very unsatisfactory in his answers, and was told that the priest was not the only one who had a right to be suspicious, and that he himself had made several trips to B.C. for the purpose of visiting the ranks.

The reporter now became interested in the question of the German's recent acts, and elicited a wealth of information.

The Minister of Finance, interrogated concerning the most recent war loan, stated that the loan was being liberally expended, and that the entire process of a ten-cent war loan would be turned over to the war chest.

However, on being questioned as to his view on coalition, the minister assumed a rather stern attitude, and when the reporter asked whether he was in favor of a coalition, he was told that he was not in favor of a coalition, and whether he was in favor of a coalition, he was told that he was not in favor of a coalition.

The Minister of Labor, on being asked what was being done about the settlement of the coal strike, said that the department had advised the police to make no disturbance.

The Postmaster General, when being asked whether there was any prospect of old miners being allowed the freedom of the mines, he said that he did not know.

He was asked if he had any information concerning the coal strike, he was told that he did not know.

Letter From Charlie Roy

The following letter has just been received by Solicitor T. Ede from Super Charlie Roy of Blairstown:

January 15th, 1917.

Mr. Thomas Ede,
Blairstown, Alberta.

Dear Sir:—I have just received your postcard and parcel. Believe me, I am very grateful for your kindness. It certainly does my heart good to know that you are not altogether forgotten in your home town.

Things are very much the same as usual here. We have had a severe snowfall over here in late November, and it is only a few months. I hope till we will be back in our Canadian homes again. Ernest Hogan and Joseph Kidd, of Blairstown, are here. Ernest was a man at the Somme. I have not seen any of the other boys. I have the Pass lately, but I expect they are all o.k.

With best wishes for a prosperous New Year, I remain,

Yours gratefully,
Sgtm. C. H. Roy."

will be secured from the large consuming companies. The increase is granted in the period from November 10 to March 31, the date of expiration of the present working agreement of the men. Each of the large companies receiving coal from the Canadian Pacific railway will receive a proportion of the wage increase proportional to the coal consumed. It is understood that not only the Canadian Pacific railway, but the Canadian Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, will receive a portion of the wage increase proportional to the coal consumed. The total enrollment of the school for the month was 214.

The attention of parents is called to the following rule: "No pupils are admitted to the primary school until they are of school age, which is six years old." Classes are commenced at the beginning of the new year, at Easter and at the first of September." The next beginners' class will commence on April 1st.

In a letter received from the Department of Education's chief attendance officer he states that he is pleased to note that the attendance at the Blairstown school was above the average, the average being 88.3% while Blairstown attained 88.7.

Coal Miners Back to Work
A settlement has been arrived at in the trade between the miners of the Canadian Pacific Coal Company and the operators of the mines. The settlement was made by a decision of the minister of labor that miners would receive 95% per cent increase, which amounted to $1.75 a week per man. The government guarantees to the operators that the money for the increase will be secured from the large consuming companies. Coal Miners Back to Work
A settlement has been arrived at in the trade between the miners of the Canadian Pacific Coal Company and the operators of the mines.

The settlement was made by a decision of the minister of labor that miners would receive 95% per cent increase, which amounted to $1.75 a week per man. The government guarantees to the operators that the money for the increase will be secured from the large consuming companies. The increase is granted in the period from November 10 to March 31, the date of expiration of the present working agreement of the men. Each of the large companies receiving coal from the Canadian Pacific railway will receive a portion of the wage increase proportional to the coal consumed. A CANADIAN SOLDIER SAYS

"Tell my friends, if they want to help me, to send some Zam-Buk. It is a good medicine and it is much in demand." This is an extract from a letter received from a Canadian soldier serving in France.

There is certainly nothing so good for the common aches and ailments incidental to a soldier's life. It is especially good for skin bites, chilblains, cold cracks and cuts. It relieves pain quickly, and being antiseptic, an application of Zam-Buk to a wound which has sustained, will prevent all danger of blood-poisoning.

If you would like to send your soldier friend something he is sure to appreciate—put a box or two of Zam-Buk in his kit bag. All druggists, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 56c. box, 3 for $1.25.

C.F.R. Steamer Will Make Three Trips for Tourists

As yet we can't say for certain what the C.F.R. steamer Princess Charlotte will make three round trips in the Alaska tourist service next summer, which becomes effective June 1, 1917.

The list of tourist sailing between Vancouver and Victoria and Shwayze, which has just been announced by the B.C. Coast Service, provides for three round trips for the Princess Alice, seven for the Princess Alice and seven for the Princess Sophie. Each round trip sailing will total 1,000 tons.

The arrival of the official ship Princess Charlotte in the Alaskan tourist trade last summer was a great success, and the company had no alternative but to arrange for her return to the northland next year, with an extended tourist travel which will break all records.

The schedule has been arranged for the year for the arrangement of advance bookings.

A feature of this delightful travel route, and specially illustrated and described, is the distribution of the distribution all over the continent.

The accommodation on the Princess Sophie is to be equal to that of the parties booking in the East. A large number of inquiries regarding the most recent developments have been made in the East by the parties who came to take the trip last summer.

Piles of German Dead

Mysterious Explosion at Douaumont Killed 1,500 Hun Soldiers

That about 1,500 Germans were mysteriously exploded at Douaumont on May 17 has now been established. At that time the fort was under a night and day bombardment. From the first unrelenting nature it was difficult to believe that it was practicable, if not physically impossible for a man to have survived.

Mr. H. H. Wood, a United States correspondent, went to the scene and allowed to remain there until intermittent intervals when he was sent back to Paris.

Only one important detail is lacking. That is the original cause of the explosion. It is known that it was caused by a mine. But the mines of explosives and munitions which the Germans had constructed were not made to be exploded.

The reinforced concrete walls of the fort, some of them seven feet thick, retained the explosion, but the air vents, or escapes, retained all the concussion. Friends of the Germans were killed in the smoke alone, and those who survived quickly died of the burns and gases caused by the explosion.

Following the occupation of the fort, the Germans were constructing their lines in the rear, putting under the fort and down the Verdun's Warden. I demand the Germans to the rear of the front line trenches with our subjection them to the unmerciful punishment.

ROYAL YEAST

United States Trade

United Kingdom Is by Far the Best Customer

Purchase of nearly two billion dollars made in the United Kingdom by far the best customer of the U.S. in 1916. An article published by the U.S. Bureau of foreign and domestic commerce shows that imports to the U.S. were more than half again as great as exports.

Trade during the year, more than double that of 1915, was due to purchases from the U.S. in the amount of $1,200,000,000.

Canada was third, with six hundred million dollars.

Besides the central powers, the Balkans, Persia, and Turkey, nations of all the world had to receive more American goods than imports.

American exports to Germany during the year were more than one million dollars, and Australia less than one thousand dollars.

In 1916 took ninety-million dollars of American food, against forty million the year before, and in 1915 against five million dollars against eighteen-three millions; China took twenty-one million dollars, Australia one hundred and forty-four millions against thirty-seven millions, Japan one hundred and ninety-seven millions against one hundred and twenty-nine millions.

Creamery at Grand Prairie

First Creamery for Peace River Country Is Established

The Peace River district of the northern part of Alberta has taken a great step forward with the establishment of the first creamery at Grand Prairie. Even in the larger farming districts, owing to the absence of scientific methods of dairying, butter, the supply was not available from our estates to another, so shipping had been held in abeyance. The situation was not so anomalous. The Peace River country is exceptionally fitted to become a great mixed farming and dairying country, but owing to the unusual popularity of the industry had not been stabilized. Now it is to be expected there, and will be ready for business by next spring.

We are horrified by the spectacle presented in certain parts of Europe during the war. We have heard of the terrible sanguinary scenes of the battle-fields, but the treatment of the slaves in the most highly civilized corners of the earth we see unmixed slavery rampant, subjected to horrors that render the first of medieval atrocities comparable.

The light of liberty has gone out in Europe, and the realization comes to us that we are no better than the people of this country?—New York Sun.

Are there in this country today Americans who are uneducated, selfish, self-centred, materialistic that they dare assert that the re-establishment of slavery is of no concern to people of this country?—New York Sun.

Minard's Liniment Co. Limited.

Gentlemen.—Last winter I received a box of your LINIMENT and a bottle of LA GRIPPE, and I have frequently proved it to be very effective in cases of influenza.

Yours, W. A. HUTCHINSON.

"Why should beef be so expensive?"

"Well, you see, beef is at a dead standstill, and most other foods, there is no method of adulterating it with cheaper materials."

Consumers have been the curse of the world since the coming of the Corn-Cure. The Corn-Cure has a power of its own not found in other preparations.

An old man went into a life insurance office and requested to be insured against death.

"My good man, we cannot insure you," said the agent.

"Because you are ninety-four."

"I am sorry, but man must die."

"I am sorry, but man must die. The statistics show that men die after they are born."

Pilgrims of The Night

The following clever lines, sent by one of the best known trench poets, is well worth reproducing. It is only right, however, to point out that may be that we should be suffering for us—

"Wish you take King George's shilling
And express yourself as willing
To go out and fight the Hun
With all your heart and soul."

The little "pilgrims of the night,"

There are many things to do,
Again which you must contend
While you country you defend
In the thing which makes you grieve

That is aggravating long.
Will you go to sleep off to sleep?
They are forming up 'two deep,'
When you're in the land of nod
They are forming up in 'square'
And you find it most annoying
When you're in the land of nod.

Upon you go a little army corps
On your body 'fornius form'
Always on a night attack.
Making charges upon your back,
Till you shout with all your might
"Get stafe the pilgrims of the night."

We don't mind the German hosts,
We're not afraid of them so much,
We can always play our cards
When we meet the Prussian Guards;
But it's enough to turn you 'army'
Wiping out this lousy army!

You can pick them off in batches,
You can burn them off with matches,
You can drown them off with water,
You'll come back in million more
You can scratch yourself to pieces
But you'll find your stock increases—

Though a hundred, you may kill
You will find there's hundreds still.

There are families in dozens,
Fathers, mothers, brothers, cousins,
And in all their various quarters.
When they both their sons and daughters,

Also a lot of catching,
Also a lot of scratching.

Thus at last there comes a day
When you're in the land of nod;
If they'd only be you do
You would eat your trousers, too,
And adopt the ancient style.

Of wearing nothing but—a smile.
Then when your clean shirt's on
And you think the hosts have gone
With great joy you may learn
That they're still there, and return.

They informed you far and near
They attack you in the rear.

Night and day you get no rest
Troubled with those dainty pests.

And they never will be gone
While there's any flesh unspent.

Help Shorten The War

Join The Royal Navy

Let not the Navy, now of all times be hampered by the lack of men!

The first urgent appeal to Canadians to join the Royal Navy was made three months ago. The need is greater today than it was then. Previous sea experience is not necessary to join this most attractive and essential branch of the service.

Men of British parentage, between the ages of eighteen and thirty-eight years, may join today and leave immediately for overseas service.
